

WINTER 2025

As the winter months are upon us, we are all less likely to be out and about. This can lead to loneliness for a lot of us. According to research, about 1 in 3 American adults are lonely, and its negative effects on mental health—worsening depression, anxiety, mood disorders and cognitive decline—as well as those on physical health, lead to higher rates of cardiovascular impairment, chronic pain and fatigue. If you're feeling lonely or facing struggles alone, please remember that your public library is a great place to make connections and meaningful interactions.

- Are you a recent retiree looking to get into a routine? Consider making the library a regular stop. Our staff love to see you, and we have many programs for you to attend and participate in. You can also volunteer to help the Friends of the Library, our fundraising group.
- Are you a parent and need to get your kid(s) out of the house to engage their minds and to give yourself a chance to have a conversation with another adult? The library has storytimes, play areas, special programs, comfortable seating, and even an outdoor space with equipment and musical instruments.
- Are you a millennial working from home who needs to be around other people? Consider using the library as a work space. We have study rooms, great WiFi, and calming fireplaces in both buildings!

Come in to see us, get to know our staff, find something to entertain and expand your mind, and interact with like-minded folks. We're here for you and would love to say hello!

If you have ideas about ways to build more connections through the library, please send them my way at claire@romeodistrictlibrary.org or use the 'Suggestions and Feedback' box via www.rdl.org under the Library Information tab.

From "Alone"
by Maya Angelou:

Now if you listen closely
I'll tell you what I know
Storm clouds are gathering
The wind is gonna blow
The race of man is suffering
And I can hear the moan,
'Cause nobody,
But nobody
Can make it out here alone.
